

HELPING TO SQUEEZE.

Retail Dealers Also Add to the High Prices for Coal.

You Can Rebuke Them and Save Seventy-five Cents a Ton.

Eventually Healthy Competition May Be Secured.

Consumers of anthracite coal in this city and Brooklyn who have responded to the call of "The World" for volunteers in its warfare against monopoly steadily increasing in numbers. Every day sees large additions to the list of orders for 15.00 coal which are placed at the various offices of "The World" in this city and Brooklyn. They are filled promptly, and every ton of coal that is delivered is guaranteed to be full-weight of 2,000 pounds.

The saving of 75 cents a ton, which every consumer who chooses his coal through "The World" secures, is a consideration too important to be overlooked, and the people are beginning to appreciate that fact.

They should also realize that in giving their aid to this movement they are entering in permanently breaking the power of the combination which has so long existed between the wholesale and retail dealers, and in eventually bringing the price of coal to the consumer down to a level more nearly representing its cost of production under a healthy system of competition.

Between these two sets of dealers are now squeezing the large as well as the small consumer with impunity, and no outcry against the extortionate charges which they attribute to the price of coal is made. "The World" has pointed out the only means by which this unlawful conspiracy can be attacked successfully and brought to terms.

The case of the Lockport (N. Y.) coal dealers, who formed an exchange to regulate the price of coal, is an instructive example of the situation which may be accomplished by energetically attacking these combinations and conspiracies in the coal trade. In that case, Judge Miller charged the jury that the law was that men had no right to form a combination to fix the price of coal, and that the law was that the price of coal should be determined by the market. The jury found for the defendants, and the coal dealers were fined $10,000 and costs.

SHERIFF SALARY BILL KILLED.

Four Republican State Senators Help the Democrats.

Sharp Mr. Cantor Gives a Finish Touch, Stopping Reconsideration.

(By Associated Press.)

ALBANY, April 18.—Senator Robertson's bill making the salary of the Sheriff of New York City $45,000 per year, and doing away with the fee of his office, came up in the Committee of the Whole in the Senate to-day.

Senator Cantor said that the Sheriff had great responsibilities and he might be made to pay more than $15,000 in damages in a single action, for the seizure of goods not actually belonging to a judgment debtor, or for an error of judgment.

Senator Saxton said that in 1891 the fees of the Sheriff were $25,000, which with the salary of $12,000, made his compensation $37,000; in 1892 the salary and fees amounted to more than $45,000; in 1893 the salary and fees amounted to more than $72,000.

Senator Cantor said that a good many expenses of the office had to be paid out of the city treasury.

A motion to strike out the enacting clause was carried, yeas 15, nays 12. Senators Coggeshall, Donaldson and Schuchman voted with the Democrats in the affirmative.

When the bill was reported back to the Senate, Senator Saxton moved to disagree with the report. The motion was lost, yeas 12, nays 16. Senator Ray holds and the three Republicans above named voted with the Democrats in the negative.

Senator Saxton asked the Chair if it would not be in order to reconsider the vote at some future day. The Chair answered that it would not.

Senator Saxton thereupon gave notice of a motion to reconsider the report that he would make on the bill.

Senator Saxton immediately made the motion to reconsider. Senator Saxton said that he had hoped that the Republicans would all vote to reconsider the report. The bill had been introduced unopposed, and he had hoped that it would be passed.

He thought that they would support it. He was fully aware of his responsibility, and he was fully aware of the importance of the bill. He was fully aware of the importance of the bill.

The motion to reconsider was lost, and the bill was killed, so far as this session of the Senate is concerned.

DID SCHILLINGER VOTE?

Judiciary Committee Hears Several Times that He Didn't.

ALBANY, April 18.—The Assembly Judiciary Committee continued to-day the investigation of the question whether Schillinger voted on the motion to reconsider the vote by which the so-called Factory Inspectors' bill was lost.

Assemblyman Ryder testified that he sat next to Mr. Schillinger throughout the course of events connected with the occurrence. He distinctly heard Mr. Schillinger say "I refuse to vote," and did not vote.

C. S. Herit, a Senate clerk, testified that he was in the Assembly Chamber at the time with a number of bills which he had brought over from the Senate. He stood directly behind Schillinger, and he distinctly heard him declare that he refused to vote. He also swore that after saying that the Assemblyman turned around in his chair and did not vote, nor say anything further as far as he could see or hear.

Assemblyman Gerret and others were sworn, whose testimony was in the same line. An adjournment was taken until 2 o'clock to-morrow afternoon.

Wild Nebraska Coxeyites Talk of Wiping Out Iowa's Militia.

(By Associated Press.)

ORLEANS, CROSSROADS, W. Va., April 15.—The Commonwealth passed its night adjutant between Greenspring and Bill Bell's lock, forty miles east of Cumberland. A meeting was addressed at Greenspring, which was the last stopping place for the night, and then the Coxeyites pushed on, en route to all the remainder of the night and stopping at Bell's Lock for the cooking of breakfast on shore.

The only news of interest this morning was a schedule of the contributions received at Cumberland, and the announcement that Jesse Coxey has been reinstated as chief of staff in command of boat No. 2 and that Roy Kirk Brown's private secretary, has been appointed assistant marshal, Smith, deposed.

It is expected that Hancock will be made by to-night and will depart on Thursday, which is one day ahead of schedule time.
